

Fresh Finds

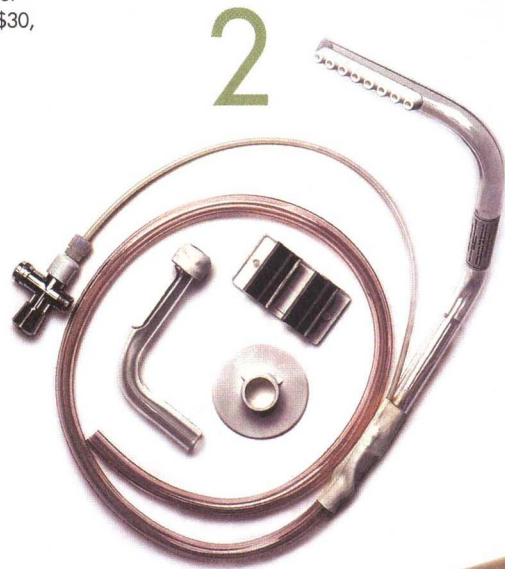

What's new in natural products

1. For a low-carbohydrate, high-protein supplement, try organic hemp protein powder. Hemp contains fiber, beneficial fats, and chlorophyll, and can be consumed in raw form—unlike other vegetable protein supplements. Add to fruit and juice for vitamin-packed smoothies. $18.95 (16-ounce bottle), Nutiva. (800) 993-4367, Nutiva.com.

1

2. Reduce household water use by 10 percent with the Wow Shower, a system that recycles and filters bath water back in shower form. A jet pump powered by fresh water draws bath water up from the tub. Choose between the high flow model, which delivers 5.5 gpm (gallons per minute) using 2 gpm of fresh water, and the low flow model, which delivers 3 gpm using only 1 gpm of fresh water. $30, Wow Shower. (888) 752-6999, WowShower.com.

2

3. Ingeo has created the first human-made fiber from a renewable source—corn sugar. With the look and feel of cotton, corn-based blankets are less resource intensive and result in fewer carbon dioxide emissions. $49.99, Faribault Mills. (800) 448-9665, IngeoBlankets.com.

3

4. Love the convenience of reclosable plastic storage bags but hate the waste? Easily clean and reuse them with the Bag-E-Wash, an inexpensive dishwasher attachment that affords huge savings in the landfill and the wallet. $9, Bag-E-Wash. (612) 532-1407, Bag-E-Wash.com.

4